Please refer to Business and Profession Code Section 10130 et seq for a general description of licensed activity. In this regard, when unlicensed assistants are employed, it is essential that they be provided adequate supervision to ensure that the proper limitations are placed upon them so they do not perform activities which require a real estate license. It should be remembered that Business and Professions Code Section 10137 makes it unlawful for a real estate broker to employ or compensate, directly or indirectly, any unlicensed person for performing licensed acts. Therefore, it is imperative that the activities of unlicensed assistants be properly monitored.
